

Glenroe's new facility in Baldwin, GA is now in full production!

The main focus of this new facility will be the production of the popular thermoform sheets as well as the elastomeric chains and non-latex elastics. The new plant will increase Glenroe's manufacturing capabilities for those product lines that will turn into faster order processing, leading to a better customer service. It will also provide additional resources for research and development in order to continue supplying the highest quality products available in the orthodontic industry.